BRITAIN'S OPPORTUNITY IN CHINA

More Active Support
Urged By M.P.

ASSISTANCE TO NANKING

London, To-day.
Britain has an opportunity now which may never recur to resume her former leadership in Chinese affairs, declares Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Parliamentary member for the Ridderminster Division of Worcestershire, in a letter to "The Times" to-day, urging that it should be Britain's aim to assist the Nanking Government by every possible means to lead China back along the path of peace and prosperity.

This, he declares, will involve the adoption of a more definite policy than has Britain been pursuing in recent years.
He suggests a change in the permanent residence of the British Minister to China from Peking to a city nearer Nanking as an integral part of the transition from an attitude of aloofness to one of active support.

Sir John declares that the situation in China is undoubtedly more stable than it has been for some time past and that the Nanking Government to-day possesses more prestige and power than any of its predecessors. It is, however, faced with difficulties and needs moral and material support.

There is no Power to which she should be able to look for that support more than Britain, he declares. — Reuter.

ITALIAN RUMOUR YET
UNCONFIRMED

Rome, To-day.

There is no Air Marshal confirmation so far, of the rumours that the King of Italy will to-day accept the resignation of Air Marshal Italo Balbo, the Air Minister, and that Signor Mussolini will create a Ministry of National Defence, combining the army, navy, and air force, with himself as Minister.

ACCIDENT AT BANK BUILDING.

Granite Falls From Crane On To Lorry.

NEW VEHICLE COMPLETELY WRECKED.

Another accident in connection with the demolition of the old Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank premises occurred yesterday morning, when a New Ford lorry belonging to the Yee Sang Tai firm was completely wrecked by the fall of part of one of the great granite pillars from the Queen's Road frontage, as it was being removed by a crane.

The pillar, consisting of a number of pieces held together with cement, was being removed bodily when it broke as it was being lifted and a portion fell on the lorry, which was standing in Wardley Street, almost cutting it in two. No one was injured.

PASSENGER ROCKET CANARD.

Queer Sunday Referee
Story Denied.

Berlin, To-day.

The Sunday Referee rocket story is denied from Stuttgart. It is declared that the last rocket experiment took place on the Baltic Coast in July 1932, which was a failure. — Reuter.

A circumstantial story was published by the Sunday Referee to the effect that a secret trial of a passenger-carrying rocket had been made on the island of Rugen, in the Baltic, under the auspices of the German War Ministry, and that Bruno Fischer, brother of Otto Fischer, the inventor, had ascended six miles into the air, subsequently making a safe descent.

2,000,000 FARMERS INVOLVED

IOWA ORDER "TO USE EVERY WEAPON"

ROOSEVELT ADAMANT TO GOLD
PLAN OPPONENTS

DES MOINES, IOWA, TO-DAY.

TWO MILLION AMERICAN FARMERS, IN MORE THAN HALF OF THE STATES OF THE UNION, ARE INVOLVED IN THE RENEWED FARM STRIKE IN THE MIDDLE-WEST. THEY ARE ATTEMPTING TO ENFORCE PRICES SHOWING A FAIR PROFIT, FOLLOWING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S OPPOSITION TO THE DELIBERATE PRICE-FIXING OF FARM PRODUCE.

The strike has now entered the "militant" phase. The Iowa strike-leader has ordered farmers "to use every weapon."

Farm skirmishes, bombing, shooting, and the demolishing of Cheese factories have been features of the strike.
Meanwhile, Mr. Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, and the Governors of the farm States are drafting a new formula embodying parity of prices, a quota system and the United States purchases of surpluses of farm products. — Reuter.

EXTREME INFLATION PREDICTED.

Pittman Renews
Silver Advocacy.

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 6, 5.44 a.m.)

Washington, To-day.

Senator Key Pittman, Chairman of the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has predicted that the propaganda now being conducted by the deflationist group against President Roosevelt's sound money programme, will drive Congress to extreme inflation this winter.

Senator Pittman believes that silver purchases are the most logical means of heading off the extremes.

He condemned the Treasury's reported inability to accept a possible war debt token payment in silver, declaring that the President is authorised to accept as much as U.S.$200,000,000, in silver, and that the payment could be accepted immediately. — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

ROOSEVELT SEES WAR DEBT NEGOTIATORS

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 5, 5.44 p.m.)

Washington, To-day.

At the request of the State and on Saturday Treasury Departments, the British Ambassador to Washington, Sir Ronald Lindsay, the Chief Economic Adviser to the British Government, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, the United States Under-Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Dean Acheson and others on Saturday conferred with President Roosevelt regarding the war debt, but without result.

After the meeting, the officials said that future conversations regarding permanent settlement were unlikely.

It is believed that the British will soon announce some offer of token payment for December, but at present there is no indication as to whether the payment will consist of silver. — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

IGNORES COMPLAINTS BY BUSINESSMEN.

ADHERES TO GOLD PLAN

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 5, 5.44 p.m.)

Washington, To-day.

President Roosevelt has flatly rejected the farm relief proposals made by the Governors of Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North and South Dakota, and has declared that he will continue buying foreign gold as the sole method of price raising, for the present.

The Governors have proposed that the President fix prices, immediately, at levels above those now prevailing and that he use all his emergency powers, including actual inflation.

The President is determined to restore the dollar's value to that prevailing in 1924 and 1926, using all practical and logical means.

The President told the Governors that he would use every means to encourage and assist price raises, except those proposed by the Governors.

Meanwhile, conservative bankers and businessmen declare that the unsettled future of the dollar is retarding business, but the Administration is ignoring complaints.

The United States Treasury and the White House believe that it will be a considerable time before the effects of foreign gold buying will be apparent although some speculative commodities are already advancing.

The President is represented as pleased with the results so far. — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

CHINA'S FINANCES

Military Expenditure
To Be Reduced.

DR. KUNG'S STATEMENT

Nanking, To-day.

Immediately after his arrival here this morning from Shanghai, Dr. H. H. Kung proceeded to the Central Kuomintang Headquarters, where he addressed the weekly memorial meeting, outlining the Government's present financial situation and his own financial policy.

Dr. Kung declared that after the successful completion of the Kuomintang Anti-Northern Expedition, the Government contemplated a reduction in military expenditures, thereby enabling him to carry out the Government's reconstruction programme.

The Government had called a disbandment conference, but, unfortunately, certain quarters did not know the real significance of the conference, which had consequently failed. He stated in conclusion that it was undeniable that military expenditure now forms the main item in the National Budget. — Reuter.

"REDS" ATTACKING IN HUNAN.

Situation Regarded As Serious.

Canton, To-day.

The Canton Military Headquarters have received an urgent message from Changsha stating that the "Reds" in Kiangsi are suddenly changing their tactics and appear to be directing their main efforts at forcing their way into Hunan.

It is stated in the same message that a Red force is being engaged by the Hunanese Government troops near Liling, the object of the "Reds" being, apparently, to cut off the connection of the Government forces between Changsha and Pinghsueng.

According to a Government wire, the situation is regarded as serious. — Central News Agency.

Myth Of Japanese
Invincibility.

"FEUDALLY EXPLOITED BY MILITARISTS"

Paris, To-day.

Japan must expect war against the Soviet and the United States, declares M. Leon Trotsky, the exiled Bolshevik, in a sensational article in "The Loeuvre."

It is time that the myth of Japanese invincibility was exploded.

Conditions both in Japan and Russia have changed since the Russo-Japanese war. The Soviet has been re-born since the revolution, while Japan is, feudally exploited by militarists.

Trotsky cites statistics to show that Japan is feeble compared with the Soviet and the United States. Therefore, he concludes, it should be hoped that the Japanese militarists will not tempt destiny. — Reuter.

"No Japanese military planes have flown over Soviet Territory" states the Japanese War Office in reply to the Foreign Office, following receipt of replies from the Kwangtung and Korean sections of the Japanese Army.

The reply, which is expected to be cabled to Moscow, added that the military authorities in Manchuria and Korea have strict standing orders not to permit their planes to fly within two kilometres of the Soviet border. — Reuter.

SATURDAY'S SOLUTION.

Beauty Can Cost Nothing

Rain-Water Ranks As Best Shampoo.

A favoured style for furniture to-day is "weathered oak" which more or less closely imitates the effect of leaving the wood for a few years in the open where the action of the air turns it to a beautiful grey colour. It is a very pleasant treatment and makes a deliciously cool-looking dining room.

In a bedroom, too, with suitable chosen hangings, rugs, chair covers and lamp shades, it is capable of producing a cheerful atmosphere. Any of the primary colours goes well with it; spring green or powder blue is very effective.

It will, naturally, be asked by the many to whom the idea of modern furniture of the better type appeals: "But can we afford it?" Is it not too expensive? Well, no; that is a criticism which no longer, with justice, can be levelled at it.

For those who aim at simplicity and are willing to cut out all that is pretentious and superfluous, the home of 1933 can be furnished quite cheaply with the best class of 1933 design at prices that compare very favourably with all but the very nasty.

For those who want to pay more, there are, of course, fairly expensive pieces which are more complicated in construction.

But those who are now working for the betterment of the school of furnishing, to get out of the rut of the stylized modes on the one hand and on the other to pull it back from the dangers of too self-conscious originality; in a few words, who wish to exercise imagination with a reasonable sense of balance and restraint. If these fail to bring decent work really within the means of those who cannot afford high prices, then they have failed in the main object of their campaign.

WHITE IMPARTS TWO MOODS.

Sophistication And Naivete.

BLACK PRONOUNCES POISE

White is a colour which definitely affects personality. White is a curious colour, for it may create two entirely different moods. A white gown may be fresh and virginal. It may suggest all the tender lovely qualities of a very young girl. Or if made on dignified lines, it may create an impression of great sophistication.

It is a colour that may be worn almost universally, for depending on the material and the style of the gown, it changes its character amazingly.

Black likewise creates a mood. The woman in a beautifully cut black gown is a woman of the world. She can not by any chance create an impression of naivete or unworshipfulness. But on the contrary, the simple lines of her black gown are an expression on her poise and sophistication.

NEW POWDER SAVER

Decorative powder bowls for the dressing-table are now made with sifters, like the flat variety. Sifters avoid "snowstorms," which are wasteful and untidy.

Youthful Chic

Charmingly girlish is this beautiful evening gown worn by Mae Clarke, screen player. It is fashioned of black crepe and boasts an unusual neckline, bordered with white grosgrain. Note the arrangement of the hemline, where grosgrain is used to break up the black.

BRIDGE NOTES

SQUEEZE PLAY

BY A. F. STAPLETON HARRIS

Luck plays just as big a part in Bridge as in any other sphere of life; similarly it is of a player's bad luck that one nearly always hears, and seldom about the good fortune in the lie of the cards or bad defence that enabled a doubtful contract to be made. One factor which probably contributes to the atmosphere of silence regarding good luck is the superstitious view generally held that to boast or even remark casually about it is virtually to dispel it.

Sometimes, however, a player will quite honestly complain about his indifferent fortune in some particular hand. Here is a case in point:

Score: N-S, Game; E-W, 0; the dealer was South, who held:

S—5
H—A K 8
D—A K Q 10 7 4
C—A 10 9

and opened the bidding with a Forcing bid of Two Diamonds. West passed, and North, who held:

S—A Q 8 6 3 2
H—7 5
D—J 6
C—7 4 2

responded with Two Spades. East then put in a bid of Three Clubs in the hope of stopping a slam. The bidding then proceeded—without interference from East or West—thus:

South North
Three Diamonds Three Spades.
Five No-trumps Six Diamonds.
(conventional).

East regarded this as an insult and doubled. All passed. West led the Knave of Clubs, and when South saw what he had to do, he thought in this wise:

"I don't care about this much; East's bid of Three Clubs and double marks him with KQ of Clubs and K of Spades. Even if he has not the K of Spades, I must be one down. What a pity; still we probably couldn't get Five Diamonds. Pretty rotten luck when Three No-Trumps is cast-iron."

Fears Justified

To cut a long story short, South was two down, as, after taking the first trick, playing out the A K of Hearts, and ruffing the third Heart with the J, he cleared trumps, and then finessed the Q of Spades only to find his worst fears justified.

As the score was being entered up, and South was deploring that he had not bid Three No-trumps, and that in any event it was hard luck not to be able to get home with such a hand, North gently said, "I'm not quite sure you can't get Six Diamonds on the hand." South, who was a keen seeker after knowledge, promptly inquired—in English, not American—"And how?"

North asked that the North and South hands should be set out again, after which he held forth: "I suggest that you should have thought out the hand in this fashion: As you rightly conjectured, East must have the K Q of Clubs and K of Spades to justify his bid and double, therefore the finesse of the Q of Spades must prove fatal and must not be taken unless found to be inevitable. Consequently, some other form of play must be adopted.

"East, presumably, has at least five Clubs, but the distribution of the rest of his hand is a closed book for the time. However, a squeeze,

EXCELLENT! SPLENDID!

CAPSTAN

COOLER, SWEETER & BETTER.

i.e., forcing discards from his hand, may prove successful. Certainly no other method is of any use. Let's play out the hand in his way."

(Card underlined wins the trick.)
West North East South
1. C J C 2 C 3 C A
2. H 2 H 5 H 3 H A
3. H 4 H 7 H 6 H K
4. H 9 D J S 4 H 8

North—"So far so good, and you were quite correct up to this point. East neither 'called' in Clubs as that was unnecessary, nor 'petered' in Hearts as you might have ruffed with the 6. At present you know of at least seven of East's cards—five Clubs, if not more, and two Hearts. Now to clear trumps:

5. D 2 D 6 D 5 D A
6. D 3 S 2 D 9 D K
7. D 8 S 3 C 6 D Q

North—"East now has either four Clubs to the K Q and two Spades to the K, or three of each suit left. A few more rounds of trumps may embarrass him somewhat."

8. H 10 S 6 C 8 D 10
9. S 7 C 4 S 9 D 7

North: "I think we've got him now. He has discarded the 8 of Clubs which marks him with K Q of Clubs and K x of Spades, so one more lead of trumps will put the final screw on him."

10. H J S 8 ? D 4

North: "If East discards the small Spade, your Ace-Queen will make as the King will fall under the Ace, and you will only lose a Club. If he throws the Queen of Clubs, a lead of a Club will force him to lead up to the Ace-Queen of Spades. Thus you make Six Diamonds doubled, Game and Rubber!"

West: "That is true enough as the cards lie, but..."

North: "I do not think that is quite a fair criticism, because on the bidding it is the only way South can make his contract, and, in fact, even without East's bid and double to help him, there is still no other way of doing it."

South: "Many thanks, North. It looks very easy now you have pointed it out, but when one is playing it this business of remembering how the cards are likely to be lying is not so simple."

North: "I agree; but if you can master a simple Squeeze hand of this sort, you will find it far less hard than you imagine when you meet the more complex and less obvious varieties of this interesting and very valuable form of play. Countless high contracts can be made only this way, and many a doubled slam can be got, to the utter discomfiture of the sanguine doubled slam can be got, to the master the art of Squeeze-Play."

East Hand:

S—K J 9 4
H—6 3
D—9 5
C—8 5 3

West's hand:

S—10 7
H—Q J 10 9 4 2
D—8 3 2
C—J 6

NOVEL METHOD OF SMUGGLING.

Roast Chickens Stuffed With Jewellery.

Bastia (Corsica).

A man arrived here on the boat from Leghorn with two fat roast chickens among his luggage.

The Customs Authorities proved inquisitive.

"I brought them to eat on the boat," the man explained.

But he had not eaten them and in any case two chickens seemed rather a substantial meal for so short a journey.

So the Customs Authorities ripped them open.

Out fell a glittering shower of rings, bracelets and necklaces.

The passenger had to pay a big fine when the chickens-minus stuffing—were returned to him.—Reuter.

REASONS FOR NIGHT STAR'S POOR SHOWING

Mr. Frost's Great Ride On Warrington.

MESSRS. NORONHA AND SOARES DO WELL

(By RAPIER)

THE defeat of Night Star was sensational, but it only goes to prove that no matter how good the pony is he must be given a chance before being sent out in a grueling 1½ miles event on his first appearance—and against ponies which have all raced this half.

I do not think Mr. Pan was very fit—he was suffering from boils on the inside of his leg and had a cold in the head, and this no doubt had something to do with the defeat of the unbeaten champion.

Fit to win, Night Star is the best Australian ever racing, in spite of his surprising defeat.

Rosy Morn, whom I selected for third place to Night Star and City of Brisbane, was well ridden by Mr. Norman Deitz, who played a waiting game so successfully that he beat City of Brisbane by 1½ lengths to record his first win over this distance—and he is holder of the five furlong record. He looked in splendid condition and his finish over the last quarter was very convincing.

Mr. Frost's Tactics

After leading the way for half the race Mr. Frost gave City of Brisbane a breather after passing the Rock for the second time, and the pony's comeback in the back-straight almost won the race. Had he not been held in after the climb to the Rock he would not have been placed.

Mr. "Ferdie" Soares rode a great race on What's That, a rank outsider, and his fine judgment all through the race fully merited his comfortable placing before Night Star. I do not think I have seen Mr. Soares ride a better race.

"RAPIER'S" ACHIEVEMENT

Successful in "Double" And Selects five winners

In Saturday's China Mail "Rapiere" successfully selected the "double," tipped Diana Bay, King's Bounty, Trembridge, Brechin, and Warrington to win, and had fourteen placed ponies in his selections, an unrivalled achievement.

Mr. Frost must have been disappointed in his choice of Charming Star instead of Cossack's Beauty. His mount did not go at all well over a distance which should have suited him, while Cossack's Beauty, ridden by Mr. Deitz instead of Mr. Butler, secured second place to the Derby winner in a race won before the field got away to a bad start.

Mayflower Finishes Badly

I thought Mayflower was going to secure second place after holding that position coming into the home straight, but he responded poorly to Mr. S. Y. Sung's urging over the last furlong and was easily caught.

Mr. "Jackie" Noronha had a good day's racing. The way he rode White Butterfly into second place to No Fear was quite as good as his riding of Flying Tourist when he caused a sensational upset in the "double" earlier in the season. He also rode well to push Flying Tourist into a place before The Tiger and Pride of Tsingtao. His finish is now far more powerful than it was.

Mr. "Benny" Proulx, who is seen at his best over a short distance, shot away from the gate to register two successes on King's Bounty and Stickypast. He was never in danger of being beaten in either, his amazing getaway on the latter counteracting the pony's inability to last.

Sadko showed a big improvement on former performances during the last month, and I was genuinely surprised to see him beat King's Justice by four lengths.

MR. E. O. BUTLER rode a good race on Pride of Tsingtao on Saturday, but was beaten out of third place by Mr. J. E. Noronha on Flying Tourist.

FANLING GOLF

OTTO QUALIFIES FOR CAPTAIN'S CUP.

Megarry Successful On New Course.

F. R. Otto, (83-13=70) qualified for the Captain's Cup at Fanling over the Old Course last week-end.

Other scores were:

J. S. McLaren	80-9=71
C. H. Burton	87-13=74
A. McKellar	84-9=75
K. S. Robertson	83-8=75
S. H. Dodwell	82-7=75

There were 32 entries. T. Megarry (86-14=72) qualified on the New Course from an entry of 15.

Mr. Frost's Grand Riding

Quite the best riding of the day was seen when Mr. Leo Frost won on Warrington from Vigilance (Mr. Sung) in the Suba St. Leger. The Shanghai crack jockey sent Vigilance off at a great pace, and at one time must have led by not much under two furlongs. The wisecracks shook their heads and said that he would never last. He was beaten by only a neck, and only through the magnificent riding of the champion jockey! Mr. Frost was accorded a great ovation when he was led in by Miss Edie Moses, and he fully deserved it.

Night Star (Mr. Pan), Iron Grey (Mr. Deitz), and Heltor Skeller (Mr. Heard) were the three favourites, who were unplaced.

Hong Kong Have 7 Wins And Malaya 5

Straits Have Three Centuries.

COLONY SIDE OUT FOR 35

(By ATHOLE).

THIS will be the eleventh inter-port encounter on Hong Kong soil, the Colony having won seven to Malaya's three in the ten previous matches. Only two games have been played in Singapore, and the Straits won both these to give them five wins to Hong Kong's seven in the whole series.

THIS is Malaya's third visit to Hong Kong since the Colony sent a side to the Straits in 1926.

Only One Colony Century

HARRY Owen Hughes has scored the only century for Hong Kong in the series—108 in Hong Kong in 1929. N. V. H. Rhodes scored 102 for Malaya in the 1926 game in Singapore, while G. Glassford (110) and G. P. Stevens (101) scored centuries in the same innings in Hong Kong in 1897 when Malaya totalled 413, the highest of the series.

"DICK" HANCOCK, who played five times against Malaya, scored 94 in the 1901 encounter, while "Tam" Pearce's highest score was 62 in 1924 match.

He played six times against the Straits.

The best Colony bowling feat was recorded by Dr. J. A. Lowson, who took 12 for 95 in the 1891 match in Singapore. In the previous year he took 6 for 24 to dismiss the Straits for 58 in the first innings of the first match in the series.

OF the Colony team H. Owen Hughes (1924 and 1929), E. C. Fincher (1926, 1927, and 1929), and F. Goodwin (1927) are the only players who have represented Hong Kong against Malaya. T. E. Pearce (1904, 1909, 1920, 1924, 1927, and 1929), and A. W. Hayward (1927) have also participated in the series.

Colony Captain's Average

OWEN HUGHES, the Colony skipper, has an average of 45.53 for his two games against Malaya.

The lowest score on record in the Colony's 35 in the first innings in the 1926 game in Singapore. Faced with a total of 348 to avoid the innings defeat Hong Kong scored 236 in the second innings. Teddy Fincher played in that match.

THE following are the complete results of the series:

1890—H. K.—Innings and 147
1890—H. K.—Seven wickets
1891—Malaya—167 runs
1891—Malaya—Innings and 79
1901—H. K.—129 runs
1904—Malaya—95 runs
1909—H. K.—Nine wickets
1920—Malaya—36 runs
1924—H. K.—Two wickets
1926—Malaya—Innings and 112
1927—H. K.—Innings and 25
1929—H. K.—Four wickets.

Played in Singapore.

R. N. Hamilton, the Malaya skipper, played against the Colony in 1920 and scored 98, while R. H. Gibson visited Hong Kong with the touring team, which included Lall Singh, in 1929.

Barnsby's Hurricane Hitting.

At King's Park yesterday afternoon the Lincolns defeated the C.B.A. in a friendly cricket match by 97 runs. Barnsby batted brilliantly to score 76, which included three sixes and twelve boundaries. C.B.A. 62 (Lilly 7 for 19) Lincolns 159 for 8 (Barnsby 75).

Sharkey Down Another Rung

It takes years for a boxer to climb to the top of the flimsy ladder, but the descent is always rapid. Here is Jack Sharkey slipping down another rung before the onslaught of Tommy Loughran (left) at Philadelphia. The ex-champion lost the decision on points at the end of the fifteen-round contest.

MIXED DOUBLES POSTPONEMENT

Favourites In Action This Afternoon

The match between M. W. Lo and Mrs. Enid Lo Litton, the holders, and E. C. Fincher and Miss O. Dalziel in the Semi-Final Round of the Colony Mixed Doubles Lawn Tennis Championship was postponed yesterday owing to the rain.

L. Goldman and Mrs. Lochner, the favourites for the title, and holders in 1931, will meet another U.S.R.C. pair in Capt. P. S. Cannon and Mrs. R. M. James in the other Semi-Final to-day at the C.R.C., commencing at 4 p.m.

INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY

Dinner To Follow The Final.

GUEST AS REFEREE

University Beat Incognitos In Opening Game

(BY STICKS)

OPINIONS of the club representatives were given freely to the suggestion of an International Hockey Tourney, proposed at the Hong Kong Hockey Association Meeting last Monday.

It is hoped to make the Tourney a short and decisive one which will not in any way interfere with the Mamak or other competitions. A first round, semi-final, and a Final, followed by a Hockey Dinner, was the proposal most likely to be adopted.

The meeting came to a definite decision that only one team could represent a nationality, and for this reason no more than the eight teams, as provisionally suggested, are likely to compete. Any addition to this number must mean stretching the point of a players' nationality and granting latitude in the definition of the country he represents.

Three India Teams

Mr. Surjina Singh (Radio) and Mr. Jahan Dad (K.I.T.C.) were greatly in favour of two separate Indian teams, namely Sikh and Mohammedan, and even a third with the expected arrival of the 1/8th Punjab from India early next year.

A. E. P. Guest, Captain of the St. Andrew's Club, has resumed his acquaintance with the hockey field, but, for the time being, only in the capacity as a referee. It is hoped that he will soon be able to lead his team in actual play, however.

The Royal Engineers were very disappointed with the result of their match against the Mamak champions, the Radio Sports Club on Friday stating that "they took the field with full expectations of winning." Only a brilliant performance by Gurbachan Singh, however, saved the Radio from the ignominy of defeat. With two goals against them, the Radio are below the Central British Association, who remain undefeated as yet.

Pole And Rugby

Johnson and Pole, the two clever South Wales Borderers players, were missed from the C.B.A. team in their match against the Hong Kong Club senior eleven last week. Otherwise the results may have been very different. Pole, I understand, is playing rugby this season. It is hoped that this excellent full-back will not give up hockey in favour of the other sport.

The C.B.A. have in Moss, one of the soundest goal-keepers in the Colony.

T. W. Poh, was elected captain of the University Hockey team at a committee meeting last week following the vacancy left by the departure of Foo Eng Lin. An experienced player and a clever full back, Poh can be relied upon to lead his team to even greater success this season.

In their initial match of the season the University showed their strength by defeating the Incognitos, virtual Mamak champions last season, by four clear goals. The "Varsity team will meet the Radio Sports Club in a friendly game on Wednesday next.

Varsity's Promising Side

The team includes several very promising new players supported by a number of last year's regular players. In E. L. Gosano, A. M. Rodrigues, and R. Woolley, the team is gaining a higher standard of play each year.

SOUTH CHINA BEAT BORDERERS BY ODD GOAL

PLAYERS SENT OFF IN EPIC STRUGGLE

TAM KONG PAK NETS 2 FOR CHAMPIONS

LEUNG AND PODMORE BRILLIANT

(By SPOT KICK)

THREATENING clouds probably spoiled a record crowd attending the clash between the Borderers and South China at Sookunpoo, and the hundreds that were present witnessed a great magnificent struggle in which the Chinese secured victory by 3 goals to 2.

An unfortunate occurrence however, marred the game in the last minutes when Underwood, the Borderers left half and captain, and Tay Quee-liang, the new South China player from Singapore, were sent off the field for fighting.

The Borderers made no change from their published team, being without Jones and Mullane, while Ip Pak-wa was a notable absentee from South China's team, Wong Wing being in goal, Pa Kaping leading the forwards and Tay Quee-liang taking Ip's place on the wing.

THE Borderers at least deserved a point. Times without number the ball hovered round the Chinese goalmouth, but the inside forwards failed badly in their shooting. Had South China had such opportunities Smith would have had to pick the ball from the back of the net more often.

The greasy ball made errors plentiful, yet both defences made splendid recoveries. Li Ting-sang and Morrison were rivals for honours. Harris earned applause for splendid heading and Lau Mau was also prominent.

Podmore and Leung Wing-chui were, however, the outstanding players of the game, great tackling and splendid long passes to the wings featuring their play. Leung took chief honours for his great generalship when under pressure.

The Borderers played vigorously, and when they did attack the pressure on the Chinese goal lasted for long periods. Only on rare occasions did the Chinese forwards get a chance of indulging in those delightful passing movements at which they are so adept.

Last Quarter Thrills

The thrills of the game were provided in the last quarter, the Borderers literally stormed the Chinese goal. A goal down, a missed penalty followed by a dramatic equaliser, and then the Chinese swept down the field to take the lead. The Borderers then launched attack after attack, but with seven of the South China team defending their goal at any cost they failed to penetrate.

Matthias and Duncan made excellent use of the slippery ball, but the inside forwards, Harris, Fortey and Hazelwood could not force the advantage home. The latter had the most chances, but shot wide, while Fortey was always robbed just as he was about to shoot.

The South China wingers were not happy against the resolute tackling of Wallace and Underwood yet both made many fine runs and centres. The newcomer, Tay, has very good football in him, but seems on the small side for the centre-forward position.

Borderers Open Scoring

The Borderers kicked off and went down to score, Fortey rather luckily receiving and sending in a hard drive which Wong Wing could only partially save. Wong then pulled down a great shot from Duncan, and, after Wallace had made a great clearance from Tay, Hazelwood had a chance, but overran the ball. Morrison headed out two great shots, and the Chinese then settled down.

With Li Ting-sang injured, South China, however, equalised when Pau Ka Ping, receiving from a throw-in, scored with a low shot that Smith might have saved. Smith, however, did well to clear a great shot from Tam and again when Yueng cut in to shoot from close in.

The Chinese nearly took the lead early in the second half when Wong sent Pau through, but Smith saved well at the expense of a corner.

South China Take Lead

This was held up through the crowd rushing across the field for shelter against the rain, and while the police were trying to marshal the crowd, South China took the lead, Tam Kong Pak heading in from a well-placed kick by Yilang.

This setback spurred on the Borderers, who attacked strongly and were awarded a penalty as the result of Tong Kwan jumping at Duncan.

Hazelwood took the kick, but shot at Wong who cleared well amid wild cheering from the Chinese.

The cheering died down very suddenly for, after Wong had smothered a shot at the expense of a corner, Harris levelled the scores with a glorious shot.

The Winning Goal

Morrison made a great clearance for a corner, and the crowd went into a frenzy as Tam Kong Pak headed in from a perfect centre from Yueng. The Borderers had plenty in reserve however, and Fortey went through for Wong to bring off a good save, Tong Kwan then left the field injured, and only by a splendid defence and over-eagerness on the part of the Borderers' forwards did the Chinese save their goal.

LINCOLNS WIN IN CANTON

"Darkie" Chen Plays For Losers.

TURNER OUTSTANDING

A goal by Ridley after eighteen minutes' play in the second half gave the Lincolns a narrow victory in their soccer game against the Chinese Military Academy in the Southern Capital yesterday.

The game was played in heavy rain before about 3,000 spectators, and "Darkie" Chen, the Shanghai Interceptor and Athletic star, led the home side.

The first half was very even, the Canton goalkeeper receiving applause for his brilliant display, especially on one occasion when he prevented a flashing centre from Hocquard passing under the bar. In the second half Ridley missed an open goal from Baldry's centre, but made amends a few minutes later with one of his customary individual efforts when he tricked three players to net the only goal of the game.

The Canton outside right was forced to retire for ten minutes in the second half, receiving a kick in the face from Bett when trying to head a low ball.

The Canton team were best served by their goalkeeper, outside right, and "Darkie" Chen, while Turner was outstanding for the Lincolns. Edminson, who displaced the injured Roden, played well.

At the conclusion of the game the General of the Academy gave a short address in Chinese in which he showed his appreciation of the visit of a British team, and said he hoped it would bring about a closer friendship between the two armies. The British Consul replied, thanking the General for his warm reception of the visitors. He then presented a Cup, inscribed in Chinese, to the Lincolns.

This is the first goal-less draw in the Second Division.

Cum gratia's Fine Display

The Artillery caused a minor sensation in their Second Division encounter against the Chinese Athletic, last year's champions, when they won by 4 goals to 1 in a very fast game.

The first half was played at such a terrific pace that by the time the interval arrived with the score 2-1 in favour of the Gunners, the Athletic were a very tired team. In the second half they were powerless to prevent the Artillery, who had still something in reserve, from sweeping on to a well-deserved victory.

Woods completed an excellent "hat-trick" against probably the best Second Division half back trio.

ST. JOSEPH'S GIVE GOOD DISPLAY

D. LEONARD EXCELS IN FORWARD LINE

ATHLETIC RUN OFF THEIR FEET

(By OUTSIDE LEFT).

THE SAINTS obtained another two valuable points towards the First Division championship by their fine win over the Artillery on the Sookunpoo ground on Saturday.

D. Leonard gave an excellent display and was the hardest working of the Saints' forwards. His two goals were very neat.

A. V. Gosano again acquitted himself favourably at full back, his new position, and proved one of the biggest stumbling blocks. Pardee, the Interceptor centre half has lost much of his former polish in his spilling efforts, and is not playing Interceptor standard this year.

Allan's Claims For Interceptor
Allan, the Artillery's right-back, gave a wonderful display against great odds, and it was no fault of his that the Saints secured a victory.

The Artillery's weakness lay in Snooks, their right winger who was not fast enough for "A.V.", losing the ball time and again. Snooks has been selected to represent the Services against the Rest on Armistice Day on the right wing.

Seal was outstanding on the Artillery's left wing and sent over many very fine centres during the second half. Gomes, the Saints' right back who was marking Seal, was slightly off colour and not fast enough for the Interceptor winger.

N. Beltrao made his debut this season, and completely bottled up Leach. He played a bustling game, but showed signs of nervousness.

Elms, the former Radio half, gave a very fine performance at left half for the Saints, combining very effectively with Sahban, his wing forward. He should retain his place in the team.

Sahban, the Saints' left winger, was one of the fastest men on the field and centred with deadly accuracy. His only fault lay in that he is a bad tackler, often letting his opposing half get away with the ball.

The Recreio were decidedly unfortunate in their efforts to secure the equaliser against Kowloon in the second half. Gomes on one occasion heading the ball into the net from a seemingly on-side position only to be penalised for "off-side", a decision which was loudly disputed by the on-lookers.

Kowloon's Listless Display
The Kowloon team took matters in a listless manner to merit a victory over a team, which, at the least, worked very hard, the goals accruing to their credit being the work of individuals, rather than the united efforts of a team.

Cord in the Kowloon goal played as well as ever, though he showed a tendency to leave his charge on the slightest provocation, a failing he would do well to check.

Hill and Willis tackled well but were rather wild in their clearances, while Bliss in the centre half position though by no means on form, was at least consistent.

The wing halves proved no match for Santos and Castillo who had matters in their own hands for the majority of the game.

The Kowloon attack came mainly from White and Blake, the wingers, who did most of the work in taking the ball into the Recreio area. Elliot and his inside forwards being held well in check by the good work of Delgado and supported by two hard working backs.

In the Second Division game between the Navy and the Lincolns J. McGuinness was outstanding for the latter, giving the Navy defence an anxious time throughout.

Two Good Goalscorers

Liddington, the Navy's custodian, gave a brilliant display between the sticks and it was mainly owing to his efforts that the Lincolns failed to register a win. Dawson, the Lincolns' goal-keeper performed similar feats at the other end of the field.

The Navy team on the whole gave a very creditable show against an inspired Lincolns' forward line who did everything but score.

REMEMBER
teeth are living parts of your body. They may be ill through lack of the proper nourishment—Calcium.
—but now you can
Cure your teeth from within—

KALZANA, the Calcium food, is the new idea in the care of the teeth. For many years people thought that a clean tooth could not decay. Yet however carefully we cleaned them they always did decay. For your teeth are living organs of the body; they may be weak, they may be ill and underfed. Through microscopic canals they get their food [calcium] from the blood.

Weak teeth give continuous trouble. By taking Kalzana, the calcium food, you can make your teeth strong and white and prevent decay.

A well-known dentist's surgeon writes:
"Kalzana makes the teeth strong and hard and so stops tooth decay. I have often seen extraordinary results."

Keep your teeth clean with a dentifrice, but make them strong with Kalzana. Only then will you be really free from decay. Kalzana will make your teeth hard and healthy. Moreover, Kalzana strengthens the whole constitution and gives your whole body increased powers of resistance.

TO A CLUB PLANO ON THE CHINA COAST.

You're old and tired and tinny,
And your keys are amber hue,
For you've stood the night long racket
Played tunes both old and new!
You've accompanied piping tenors,
Or 'blotto' baritone,
And even would-be-bassos
In beery monotonous

You're only an old piano
But it's wonderful what you do!
"Little Brown Jug" and "Old Lang Syne"
And the "Bells of St. Mary's" too!
They rattle the dice around you,
And the whiskey flows again,
"Boy, one for the old pianer!"
And you sound, but you sound in vain!

The Club-Boy never dusts you,
And your pedals always squeak,
But with plenty of beer inside me
Your music makes me weep!
You were made in dear old England
In eighteen ninety four,
And the name on your wall worn
Keyboard

Was a famous firm of yore!
I suppose it depends who plays you
Whether you sound all right,
And even the worst musician
Plays better when he's tight!
So here's to the happy evening!
Here's to the friends you know!
Though you're only an old piano
You're a soul for even you!

SECOND LARGEST TELESCOPE

Texas University To Build Instrument.

ESTIMATED TO COST $325,000

Cleveland, Ohio. The world's second largest telescope, so powerful that it will permit astronomers to photograph stars 1,000,000 times fainter than the faintest star visible to the naked eye, is to be constructed at Mount Locke near Fort Davis, Texas.

A contract has been signed by the University of Texas for the construction of the telescope and observatory at an estimated cost of $325,000.

The huge mirror, 80 inches in diameter and weighing 5,000 pounds, will be second only to the 100-inch mirror in use at Mount Wilson Observatory in California. It will be cast of a special heat resisting glass requiring nine months to cool and two years for grinding and polishing.

An expedition headed by Dr. Otto Struve of Yerkes Observatory, University of Chicago, who will be director of the new Observatory, has reported the site exceptionally good for observation of faint nebulae and distant galaxies because of the clear, dry climate.

Under a co-operative arrangement the University of Texas will build the observatory from a $900,000 fund left by the late Mr. W. J. McDonald of Paris, Texas, while the University of Chicago will furnish trained personnel for its operation.

The telescope will be twenty-six feet long and four miles of electric wiring will be required for the push button control of telescope, dome timing apparatus, bridge and observers' platforms.—Reuter.

DISEASES CURED BY WIRELESS

Absence Of Pain In New Method.

GERMAN DOCTOR'S CLAIM

London.

The use of ultra-short wireless waves for the cure of severe internal complaints is advanced by a German scientist, Dr. Erwin Schliphake, in the latest issue of the "British Journal of Physical Medicine."

The doctor reports the cure of complaints such as internal abscesses, pneumonic tuberculosis, and simple headache all without operation. The primary wave is generated by an emitter designed like a broadcasting set and in making use of ultra-short waves he found that large carbuncles healed in from 10 to 20 days after 8 to 15 days treatment.

"In most cases the pain and feeling of tension subside after the first treatment," he states. "The absence of pain is particularly appreciated by all patients because the affected part is not nearly as seriously incapacitated as by the usual surgical or conservative treatment."

"In true migraine (special type of headache) ultra-short wave treatment of the head affected rapid improvement and cure. These treatments are much more pleasant and less strenuous in these cases than present methods, as daily treatment of the head only requires half-an-hour a day, and is very agreeable to the patient."

The "British Journal of Physical Medicine," commenting on this, states it has been found that the ultra-short waves pass most freely through the tissues which have the smallest capacity resistance, and they traverse fat, brain tissue and bone without difficulty.—Reuter.

SUICIDE PROBLEM FOR CORONER.

Woman Dies 16 Years After Attempt.

WOUND HASTENED DEATH.

London.

When is a suicide not a suicide?

John Boomsma, of Frohisher House, Wapping, said that his wife, Jessie Susannah, aged 54, cut her throat in 1917, because she was "depressed" and he was recalled from the Army in France to go to her.

She was in hospital for 14 months, and left with a tube in her throat, through which she was fed. She had been in hospital about 12 times since, and finally died in St. George's Hospital.

Dr. Guthrie, the coroner, returned a verdict that death was due to pneumonia and malnutrition, accelerated by the cut throat.

"The law lays down," he added, "that if a person dies more than a year and a day afterwards it cannot be held to be suicide."—Reuter.

Japan's Imperial Policy

There have been several developments recently in the general trend of Japanese affairs. The international bearing of these matters, makes it vital to weigh both Japan's chances of success in her present ventures and the probable direction of her aims. "Anglo-Japanese friendship is stronger than ever to-day, although the alliance has been abrogated, and trade disputes exist," declared Viscount Ishii, chief of the Japanese delegation to the World Economic Conference, in an interview recently. Further, he expressed the opinion that it was incomprehensible that there should be any fears of further Japanese expansion in the Pacific, or that Japan could contemplate aggression thousands of miles from her own country. On the other hand, that such fears do exist is hardly surprising in view of Japan's recent conquest of Manchuria, her policy with regard to China and her flouting of the League of Nations. Moreover, the question raised by her Pacific island mandates is a most delicate one, while the insistence of the Japanese naval authorities on the carrying out of a large building programme does not tend to allay suspicion, although it is claimed to be essentially a protective measure prompted by the large expansion of building programme by other countries. The most significant development at present is that matters appear to rest largely in the hands of one man. General Araki is Japan's strong man who was responsible for the entire Manchurian operations, and who is now concerning himself with great schemes for its development. He is, however, doing much more than this. Recently the diplomatic correspondent of the "Daily Herald" wrote: "Japan is on the verge of passing under the control of a military dictatorship, pledged to a policy of big armaments and aggression abroad." The Minister for War (General Araki), who is known as the Japanese Mussolini, has secured the resignation of the Minister for Foreign Affairs (Count Uchida) and has appointed his friend, Mr. Koki Hirota. This is a step towards the abolition of Parliament and the placing in power of a Council of State controlled by army generals. General Araki has dreams of the Japanese "liberation" of India, and the vision of a great empire by which Japan would exercise a hegemony over all Asia. There is, nevertheless, another side to the picture. It must be borne in mind that underlying all Japanese policy are two interconnected factors: one is Japan's economic problems, the other is national pride. Ever since the nation began its policy of industrialisation, its rapidly increasing population and its lack of adequate raw materials and food supply have led it into an economic blind alley, to escape from which two courses were open. One was to follow the example of Great Britain in similar circumstances by becoming a great manufacturing country exchanging its products for the materials it lacked, the other to expand into convenient territories by force of arms and by commercial penetration in order to afford an outlet for surplus population and another field for the production of what it required. Both these policies were followed with marked success until Japan seemed to dominate the Far East, but the post-war period nearly cost her all that she had gained. Owing largely to the forceful policy of General Araki and his party not only has lost ground been recovered, but Japanese territories have been tripled by military conquest and her trade is greater than ever before. This was achieved, however, only by bursting the bonds placed on Japanese ambition by the open door policy, the Washington Treaties of 1921-2, and implied in the Covenant of the League of Nations and the Kellogg Pact, giving rise to the universal attitude of distrust as to Japan's intentions. Yet, Japan has asserted from the first that all her actions had been forced on her by necessity, a necessity so great that nothing can be permitted to stand in the way, and, indeed, her operations during the last three years can be interpreted on this ground. Thus, faced with her population and food problems, Manchuria was taken for the purpose of utilizing its vast resources. Faced with the effects on her industry of the Chinese boycott, competition by other countries, and the depression, Japan is making a great bid for world trade, using the depreciated yen as a weapon both for keeping Japanese factories working at high pressure and for establishing foreign credits for the purchase of raw materials, and finally, faced with enemies on all sides, she is building up her army and navy.

HERE, THERE and EVERYWHERE

A Super-Aryan Town

The oldest town in Prussia celebrated its millenary last month with pageantry and Nazi ceremonial, including an altar with candles burning before the portraits of Hitler and Goering.

is called Tangermunde, stands on the left bank of the Elbe, and but for the obstinacy of the inhabitants 500 years ago might have been the capital of Germany to-day. Frederick I., founder of the Hohenzollern dynasty, made the castle his chief residence and governed his realm of Brandenburg from it. Some 50 years later the inhabitants of Tangermunde refused to pay a beer tax levied by one of his successors and their ruler was so enraged that he moved his capital to Coeln, now part of Berlin.

Tangermunde is proud of its history. It has only 12,000 inhabitants, but a flood of tourists has poured into it from the capital. Its architecture is not remarkable, but its Aryanism is beyond reproach.

* * * Alfred Stead

It would be difficult to imagine a greater contrast between father and son than that which existed between the late W. T. Stead and his son, Alfred, who has just died at Dresden.

Alfred Stead had some of his father's ability, but none of his stability. He was, in a sense, a victim of the immediate post-war period in Central Europe, where the champagne of victory went to more than one English head.

As Admiral Troubridge's Chief of Staff on the Danube in 1918 and 1919, he was for a short time the uncrowned king of Budapest, outbidding everyone in hospitality, and occupying the best box at the opera.

Afterwards he tried to make a living as a business man in Central Europe and in the Far East. He was full of ideas, and introduced the first British airplanes into Czechoslovakia. But he never quite succeeded. In the end he was a sad and lonely figure, wandering from capital to capital in search of his lost glory.

WHAT WILL ROUSE BRITAIN?

DANGEROUS TREND OF UNIONIST POLICY

WEAKNESS IN INDIA

(By A. A. B.)

London.

Of the annual resolutions of the Conference of Conservative Associations Lord FitzAlan, a former Conservative Whip, observed with the brevity of wit, that they did not decide anything, and were not meant to.

"The object was to bring members of the party together to ventilate their opinions, and to discuss the questions before them, and by so doing to inform the Government of the opinions of the party in various parts of the country."

This is an admirable and legitimate purpose, and Lord FitzAlan summed up the objection to the Government action by saying:

"For God's sake don't be in such a desperate hurry, don't run the risk of an appalling tragedy; let us go on slowly, carefully and cautiously."

That is really the sum of the whole business. The Government say: "Do not prejudice the White Paper, but trust us." Their critics, led by Lord Lloyd, say: "You are going too far and too fast." If that question had been put to the meeting, undoubtedly it would have been carried; but, as invariably happens at these party gatherings, Mr. Chamberlain jumped in, and declared that the question of the Government's policy was equal to a vote of "No Confidence" in the Government.

Fair Speeches

All speeches both for and against the White Paper were fair and moderate, but was quite agree that the question is of such importance that it ought to be put to the vote of the nation. Lord Wolmer moved, on behalf of the Aldershot Division of Hampshire, very cogently and temperately, that he and his friends were alarmed at handing over the government of 360 millions to the "politically-minded" people of India. Who are the "politically-minded" people of India? Ninety per cent. of them are illiterate.

It would be safe to say that of the balance 60 per cent. were Hindus and the remainder Mohammedans. The politically-minded people of India are the Indian agitators, who too often resort to terrorism and even assassination as methods of argument.

Are the people of England, who have won and civilised and governed India for the last two centuries, not justified in feeling that this is an issue on which they ought to be consulted, and that you should look before you leap?

Mr. Amery, who has long been a Die-hard Protectionist, asserted that the White Paper was a more workable scheme than that of the Simon Commission. What was the Simon Commission? It was a special Commission headed by the leading Advocate of the English Bar, assisted by Lord Burnham, the Hon. Edward Cadogan and many other experienced legislators, to report upon the question of Indian Reform. They devoted two whole winters to the task of travelling to every part of India, and they embodied the results of their labour in a cautious and moderate recommendation that provincial autonomy ought to be tried first on a limited scale and, if successful, then adopted.

This report, which I will undertake to say not 10 per cent. of the Members of Parliament have read, has been exchanged for an accumulation of the resolution adopted in the easy atmosphere of a Round Table Conference.

We cannot take it, on the mere assertion of Mr. Amery, that the Simon Report is unworkable, or agree that anyone who votes for delay is guilty of conspiracy against the Government. It would be absurd in an article like this, to attempt the comparison of the details of the two policies, but to secure a majority by orders from the Central Office is a sign of weakness, if it is a sign of anything but mere confusion of thought and love of dictation.

"Government is Safe." The Members of Parliament need not be afraid of a General Election or of the Government being defeated. There is not the slightest fear of that happening for at least two years. But that is no reason why in the interval free discussion and criticism by the House of Commons should be suppressed by a Central Office manoeuvre. Don't let us forget that if we make a mistake now about India we cannot retrace our steps.

It is, therefore, well that the ultimate responsibility of all this agitation and terrible experiment should be placed on the right shoulders.

The scheme known as Dyarchy, or the division of the Government of India between India and England, was concocted and launched on the world by two men, namely, Philip Kerr, now the Marquis of Lothian, and Mr. Lionel Curtis, who were at that time the joint editors of the "Round Table," a magazine with no circulation or influence, but admittedly crammed with abstract theories.

The impressionable Mr. Montagu seized upon these half-baked theories of Messrs. Curtis and Kerr, and launched them in India, through which they ran like a fiery cross, and for the last twelve years proved the most dangerous question British politics.

I ask, in all seriousness, why our Indian Empire is to be upset by two men like Messrs. Curtis and Kerr, who are both Fellows of All Souls, and men of undoubted repute and learning, but whose articles in a magazine can hardly escape Lord Beaconsfield's description as "the fantastic scheming of a presumptuous pedant."

However, the Government have made up their minds that all safeguards have been taken, and all dangers guarded against, and they have further declared the White Paper to be a question of confidence, so there the matter must rest, for the time being, at all events.

Mr. Baldwin Uneasy

Mr. Baldwin's speech, though important and wide-ranging, had nothing to do with the question of India. It is Mr. Baldwin's opinion that a split in the Conservative Party at this moment would weaken England's position in Europe on the question of Disarmament. Mr. Baldwin is obviously uneasy, and said with unabated emphasis that England must stand by her Treaty obligations, one of which is the Treaty of Locarno.

This was supposed to be the diplomatic triumph of Sir Austen Chamberlain, and binds England to fight Germany for France or France for Germany. It is, indeed, a formidable obligation, and if we were called upon to fulfil it the civilisation of Europe, as we know it, would be at an end.

The first step Britain should undertake should be to bring up the aerial fleet and the Navy to at least the same level as those of America and Japan.

Plainly speaking, Great Britain exists on sufferance, as far as physical force is concerned. Any nation might walk in, as to Hyde Park, and take possession of our "green and pleasant lands."

"DEAF AND DUMB" BEGGAR'S HOAX.

Certificate Obtained By Imitating Brother.

Belgrade. A "deaf and dumb" beggar who was well-known in the streets of Novi Sad was sitting in a cafe when a young man, somewhat intoxicated, swore at him.

To the young man's surprise the beggar replied with a good round oath.

A fight ensued and both of them were arrested.

The police then discovered that the beggar—who had saved several hundred pounds out of his takings in the past few years—was perfectly normal.

He had been brought up with a deaf and dumb brother, from whom he learned to imitate the symptoms of the affliction, so well that he was able to obtain a "deaf and dumb" certificate from the authorities.—Reuter.

ILLEGAL THEATRE AT WANCHAI

Amateurs Turned Professionals.
PROPRIETOR OF TROUPE FINED $50

A troupe of ten Chinese amateur actors, including two women, which included a blacksmith, a bootmaker and a house-boy, were prosecuted at the Central Police Court this morning for using the third floor at 131 Johnston Road, Wanchai, for the purpose of public entertainment without a license.

Chung Hau, the first defendant who was in charge of the troupe, pleaded guilty. He said that they had been granted permission to display their sign-board at Saiyung-pun three years ago. When they moved the theatre to Wanchai they applied to the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs and were told verbally that they could carry on.

Sub-inspector Elston, prosecuting, said in evidence that the defendants were dockyard employees. They operated the Sing Sing Kit Sze Amateur Theatre, for which they had received permission three years ago, but they had now developed into professionals and were required to be licensed.

Their activities were kept under observation for ten days and it was found that four performances were held each week, with a large attendance mostly made up of women.

The theatre was visited last night and 132 adults and a number of children were found seated on benches before a stage. The stage contained painted scenery and furniture, and the actors were dressed in fancy costumes. The third defendant, the bootmaker, said that he had the part as the King's daughter, while the two women were acting as soldiers. Tickets, costing 50 cents, were issued and were good for four performances.

Sub-inspector Elston said that the police suggested that the whole affair was a swindle. The services of the defendants were obtained on the pretence of teaching them to act, while tickets for the performance were sold behind their backs.

The Magistrate discharged nine of the defendants, but imposed a fine of $50 on Chung Hau.

DANZIG EDITOR ARRESTED.

Appeal Made To Wrong Authority.

Moscow, To-day. Following the suspension of two Danzig newspapers on Saturday, three prominent Danzig journalists, the managers of both papers and the editor of one of them have been arrested on the ground that they appealed direct to the High Commissioner for Danzig, M. Rostling, against the suppression of the newspapers, instead of to the Senate.

The suppression of the papers followed the publication of a speech made by Herr Greiser, Vice-President of the Senate, in which he instructed that the Danzig police must hold Nazi opinions.—Reuter.

INTERPORT CRICKET GAME POSTPONED

Services May Be Robbed Of Their Fixture.

WICKET UNDER WATER

To-day's play in the first inter-port cricket encounter between Hong Kong and Malaya was abandoned following the hoisting of the No. 1 typhoon signal at 10.20 a.m. The incessant rain has left the club wicket under water.

Harry Owen Hughes said he did not know what arrangements were being made regarding the match, whether it would be commenced tomorrow or not.

It is, however, thought that, weather permitting, the game will commence to-morrow or on Wednesday, and that Malaya's fixture against the United Services on Friday will be cancelled or postponed to a later date.

On Saturday Hong Kong will meet Shanghai, and on Friday week Shanghai will engage Malaya.

Play will commence at 11 a.m. each day, with the exception of the first day against Shanghai when a start will be made at 11.45 on account of Armistice Day. The luncheon interval will be taken from 12.30 to 1.15, and stumps will be drawn at 5 p.m.

R. N. Hamilton decided to omit R. B. Lewis from his side, and the teams for to-day's play were as follows:—

Hong Kong:—H. Owen Hughes (R.K.C.C.), E. R. Duckitt (H.K.C.C.), E. C. Fincher (H.K.C.C.), Pearce (H.K.C.C.), P. V. Williams (Army), A. C. Hamilton (Army), C. C. Garthwaite (Army), T. M. L. Raymond (H.K.C.C.), E. Goodwin (H.K.C.C.), A. R. Mung (I.R.C.), and G. S. Dunkley (H.K.C.C.).
Malaya:—R. N. Hamilton (captain), A. A. D. C. Burn, V. Cronin, R. G. Gibson, B. S. Gill, W. Q. Jonkloss, R. Morgan, C. A. Speldewinde, Eu Chow Teik, and G. Will.

LEWIS TO PLAY FOR KOWLOON C. C.

Singapore Player To Remain In Colony

R. B. Lewis, the Malaya inter-port slow to medium-paced bowler, is remaining in Hong Kong after the series, and will assist the Kowloon Cricket Club in their bid for the League Championship. Kowloon, who are strong in batting and weak in bowling, have not had a good slow bowler since Pat Mader left them, and will welcome the Straits player's services.

POSTAL SERVICE IN N. CHINA.

Chinese Authorities Resume Control.

Peking, To-day. Following arrangements with the Japanese, the Chinese authorities are gradually resuming full jurisdiction over the whole ex-war zone in Hopei Province.

With the exception of Kupelkow and Shanhai-kwan, the Chinese postal service at Hsifengkow, Lengkow, Malanyu and other important points inside the Great Wall has resumed, but the Chinese post offices at the above-mentioned points have not been instructed to handle mail from Manchukuo.—Central News Agency.

FOOD CONTROL FOR CHINA?

Plan To Keep Prices At Normal Levels.

AGENCIES IN MAIN CITIES

Shanghai, To-day. In accordance with the resolutions adopted at the Foodstuff Conference between delegates from eight food-producing provinces of China, which was recently held at Nanchang, the Nanking Government is seriously considering the possibility of organising foodstuff control agencies in various food-producing provinces with a head office at Shanghai.

This organisation will be mainly of the nature of a commercial enterprise backed up with a capital of $2,000,000. Its object is to regulate the supply and demand of foodstuffs, thus keeping market prices of food products at normal levels.

It is learned that this suggested organisation will at first establish its agencies at Kiukiang, Changsha, Wuhu and Wushih, all of which are rice distributing centres. Central News Agency.

RUBBER GROWERS PROTEST.

Restriction Unpopular In D. E. Indies.

London, To-day. The Amsterdam correspondent of the Financial Times states that the Algemeen Handelsblad reports that a campaign to influence rubber growers against restriction is apparently proceeding in the Dutch East Indies.

The campaign, it is stated, is probably based on political motives, and if the restriction is adopted, passive resistance in native quarters should be reckoned with.

Well-informed Dutch rubber circles are still confident that these matters will be settled at the conference of Governmental Commissioners in Batavia on November 22.—Reuter.

News In Brief.

A Police Dance will be held on Friday evening next at Lane, Crawford's Restaurant.

A Hong Kong branch of the Royal Army Medical Corps Association is to be inaugurated on Monday next.

Dr. Li Shu-fan will speak to-morrow on the subject of "Sensible Apparel" at the usual weekly tiffin of the Hong Kong Rotary Club.

Yeung Ning, unemployed, was this morning at the Central Magistrate's Court on the sum of $50 for stealing 20 cents from a cigarette stall in Tank Lane. Chased by a police reservist, he was finally arrested by a district watchman.

Pleading guilty to stealing silk goods valued at $10 from the Lakoomal Silk Store at 46 Queen's Road Central, a shop coolie, Lam Ho Kam, was sentenced to two weeks' hard labour at the Central Police Court this morning.

To-day's Short Story.

A Life For A Lamp

By Peter Cheyney.

From the narrative of CHARLES H —, ex-night watchman, Manhattan Docks.

THERE'S always stories where there's docks. I reckon I've listened to more stories than most fellers.

"Ef you're one of these guys that believes in romance you can't do better than hang around Manhattan Docks ef you wanna get stories.

"The boats come in an' go out; an' every boat carries a load of tragedies an' comedies—but the comedies don't matter much. There ain't so many of them—

"My strangest story? Yeah—I got one. Who ain't? But this story is a real good 'un. It happened when I was a junior watchman twelve years ago, when I was doin' the midnight to four a.m. stretch.

"I'll tell it to you, an' you kin judge for yourself. I reckon it's good."

"It sounds funny for a guy to be a junior night-watch when he's forty-three, but that's how old I was when this happened.

"The night-watch in charge was a feller named Ollsen. He was a Norwegian. I guess, an' a good feller, too. He was a regular guy.

"Our job was patrolin' round No. 4 Dock, an' also keepin' an eye on the surrounding neighbourhood. We was supposed to tip off anything funny to the Customs men. At this time there was a lot of smugglin' of one sort an' another goin' on.

"An' Manhattan was a bit funny in those days, y'know. Lots of strange guys hangin' around. Fellers who'd come back from the war and who wasn't very pertickler about bein' quick with a shottin' rod. They was up to anything, and was they tough? They was the sort of guys who'd use manhole covers to play draughts with.

"One night Ollsen and me went to a speak-easy just off Mangrove Court—a place not half so nice as it sounds—and whilst we was there some swell guy

Tampico Under Water After Hurricane

This aerial view of a section of the oil port of Tampico, Mexico, gives a graphic idea of the chaos wrought by the recent hurricane and floods, which did millions of dollars worth of damage and took a large toll of lives. A LIFE FOR A LAMP

"I went an' saw him. I told him I was hard up an' needed some jack, an' that if there was a big box of the stuff to be landed it could be done easy. I said that if he liked to drive down himself in his car I would let the car into No. 4 Dock. I said he had better get used to drivin' down and parkin' the car inside the dock, an' I would tell Olsen that he was payin' me a few dollars for lookin' after it. So that when the night came to put the stuff on the car nobody would notice it. I said that I would pull out to the boat myself and they could let the box of hope down to me over the stern. I would use one of the port dinghies so everything would look all right, especially as we night-watchmen was supposed to row around the dock basins occasionally.

"He thought the idea was good an' gave me fifty dollars for myself. Then every night when he came down I used to let his car inside No. 4 Dock gates. I used to make him drive it along the stone pier and stop just on the left of the pier lamp that we lit at dusk. I made him stop there because, except for a foot or two on each side of the lamp, the place was pitch dark.

"A week or so afterwards the boat came in that had the stuff aboard. Tony—tipped me off that he would drive down to his usual speak-easy an' then say he was goin' straight back to Broadway. Instead of that he would turn off, an' I would have the gate opened for him at twelve o'clock. He would drive right down the pier and pull up as usual by the lamp. I would close the gate behind him, run off to the digby and pull out to the boat, get the stuff, pull back to No. 4 pier, where he would come down the side steps and he could drive off with it.

"At five-minutes-to-twelve I went down to the engine house an' started up the suction pump workin' in No. 4 Dock Small Basin. I had previously done something else I wanted to do. Then I went down to the gate an' waited for Tony. He was punctual. He saw me opening the gate and he trod on the gas an' shot down the pier just like he had got in the habit of doin'.

"I just hadn't told him that I had moved the lamp twelve feet off the end of the pier on a long iron rail I had got.

Sucked Him Down.
"He naturally miscalculated, and when he saw what had happened it was too late. He went clean over the end of the pier, and the No. 4 suction pump that I had set workin' did the rest. The suction pump sucked off the water at the bottom of the basin out of inlets in the cement sides, and the pump just sucked Tony—down an' through the inlet, an' that was the end of him.

"And if ever they empty No. 4 Dock Basin they'll find his two-seater on the bottom!
"Nobody ever seemed to even miss him. He had a lot of enemies, and the authorities

Knightly Kiss

Miss Ivy Ruxton, London store clerk, who charged Sir Leo Chiozza Money, titled British author and economist, with assault. The girl said the knight kissed her as the train in which they were passengers was going through a tunnel. He was fined $10 on the assault charge, and $250 on a second charge of annoying a passenger, brought by the railroad company. Sir Leo was acquitted of a similar charge in 1922.

WHAT WILL ROUSE BRITAIN?

Disarmament Danger
I don't think the average Briton in the least realises the danger to which he has been exposed by cutting down our armaments. If Japan or America were really to show their teeth, or if the India Empire were to be flung into anarchy and civil war, we should realise too late the wisdom and patriotism of Mr. Churchill and Lord Lloyd. But I suppose that nothing but a real disaster will rouse the British nation to a sense of its rashness and happy-go-lucky philosophy.

Our Air Force, like the question of India, will soon be made a party question, and when once that happens, good-bye to all counsels of prudence. After all, what does it matter that Mr. Baldwin says that the Hindu population are his friends and equals? He is welcome to them, but do not let him drag the Conservative Party into the abyss at his heels. He and Lord Irwin may do almost what they like about the safety of these islands.

We ought to have learnt from Ireland a lesson that it never pays to try and buy off your enemies at the expense of your friends.

TEETOTAL NIGHT CLUB.

Cheapest Drink Costs Two Shillings.

London now boasts a teetotal night club.

Every night it opens its doors when the theatres close—and closes them in the early hours next day. It is very smart and very bright, and an excellent dance band dispenses hot rhythm.

And there is a perfect "cocktail" bar. On shining glass shelves are arranged a profusion of "soft" drinks got up to look like the real thing.

The cheapest costs two shillings, so the club is likely to remain exclusive. It is run by a coloured man and a film director. "We cater," they explained, "for the Bright Young Things. This is essentially a spot for young people who want to go to places while parents sleep."—Reuter.

thought naturally that somebody had taken him for a ride. Anyhow, they were glad to be rid of him.

My Daughter.
"An' that was the end of Tony.

"Why did I do it? Well—I just didn't like him very much—see? An' there was another thing. You remember that swell game I told you about—the one we saw him with in the Broadway speak-easy?

"Well, that was my daughter, see. The one that went off when she was eighteen—the one who was 'doin' Tony—'s dope-runnin'.

"That sorta got me annoyed, an' I thought I'd fix Tony—An' I fixed him."

WOMEN ADOPT NEW VOCATION

Greater Numbers Enter Grocery Business.

"NO TASK TOO HEAVY"

London
More and more women are likely to be seen behind the counters of grocery shops.

So it was said at the Grocers' Exhibition which is now being held in the Agricultural Hall, Islington. The elderly gentleman with his rubicund smile and white apron—the grocer of convention who still appears on the Exhibition's posters—is likely before many years have passed to give place to a smart young woman.

Nor will she be content to handle only the daintier goods—the packets of tea and the cartons of biscuit.

She will be as ready as the men to bone and roll a side of bacon; weigh, pack and stack a hundred pounds of sugar, or cut and wrap cheese by the stone.

No task is too heavy for the many woman entrants in the various competitions which are being held at the Exhibition. It was a woman who won the bacon boning and rolling contest two years ago!—Reuter.

LONE YACHTSMAN OFF AGAIN.

Second Voyage Round The World.

Balboa Canal Zone.

Alain Gerbault, the French hermit of the sea, has sailed in the tiny ship that bears his name from Tabago on his second lone voyage around the world. His first stop will be the Marquesas unless a shortage of water or other mishap forces him to call at the Galapagos Islands. He has spent more than a month here, mostly in Tabago.

On August 2 Alain Gerbault arrived at Colon, Panama, from Martinique, in the West Indies. In July, 1929, he completed a six-year trip around the world in a 30-foot sloop.—Reuter.

"SWEEPINGS"—KING'S THEATRE

That character expert, Lionel Barrymore, gives one of his most picturesque performances in "Sweepings," RKO-Radio Picture now playing at King's Theatre. Daniel Pardway is a made-to-order character for the eldest Barrymore. After the death of his wife a sacrifice to his ambitions, Daniel is vitally bound up in two interests—his store, which he founded in the ashes of the Chicago fire—and his four children, whom he hopes will some day come into the store as his partners.

But the success of Pardway becomes the ruin of his family. Eric Linden plays Pardway's youngest son, his favourite and the only one who realizes his own contribution to his father's death. William Gargan, an expert in non-chalance, blithely goes his way to end up moral wreck. Gloria Stuart plays the only daughter who, after her marriage to a mercenary prince, manages to keep the newspapers well supplied with scandal. George Meeker plays the son whose inability to become interested in anything beyond window-trimming is a keen disappointment to his father.

"FRA DIAVOLO"— QUEEN'S THEATRE

Laurel and Hardy's latest feature-length comedy "Fra Diavolo," the current attraction at the Queen's Theatre, is a picture which not only bears the stamp of the individual, inimitable humour for which these two comedians are noted, but has been supplied with a highly colourful background.

The fun begins when the pair are robbed of their life savings by a bandit and, seeking revenge, hit upon the bright idea of becoming brigands themselves. Hardy pretends he is Diavolo, a notorious bandit chief known throughout the country. Laurel becomes his trusted henchman. Eventually they encounter the dangerous Diavolo himself and are made his prisoners. Their attempts to escape, their blunders in trying to prevent the bandit-chief from robbing the lovely Lady Pamela, and their interference in a romantic liaison between a young officer and an innkeeper's daughter, supply the situations which keep the audience rolling in its seats.

"THE PAST OF MARY HOLMES," —CENTRE THEATRE

"The Past of Mary Holmes," now showing at the Centre Theatre, was adapted for RKO-Radio Pictures from the famous novel "The Goose Woman," by Rex Beach.

Helen Mackeller, a stage actress hitherto, has the leading role, supported by Er: Linden, Jean Arthur and "Skeets" Gallagher. Helen Mackeller's forte is depicting personalities seen in real life. In "The Past of Mary Holmes," she has tremendous scope in the role of an opera singer, become a dissolute recluse, who broods over her colourful and glamorous past. Her eccentricities and mad desires for publicity almost bring to the gallows the son who she tries to hate.

MAURICE CHEVALIER THEFTS FROM BANK BUILDING SITE

Reported On Board
President Hoover.

NOT ON PASSENGER-LIST

A rumour, founded on recent reports in the film journals that Maurice Chevalier, the famous star, intended to take a trip to the Far East, was spread yesterday that he was a passenger by the President Hoover, which arrived in Hong Kong this morning.

Enquiries at the offices of the Dollar Line this morning, however, show that not only does his name not appear in the passenger-list of the President Hoover, but so far as is known here, he has not booked by any of the Company's ships.

CONSTABLE FIRES INTO CROWD.

Woman Charged With Resisting Arrest.

POLICE INVESTIGATIONS

In connection with the alleged attack on Imam Ali Shau, an Indian constable, in Upper Lascar Road yesterday morning, when a Chinese was wounded in the foot by a shot from the constable's revolver, Lai Nui, married woman, was charged at the Central Magistracy this morning with resisting arrest and with malicious damage to Government property, to wit, one police whistle and chain, at Upper Lascar Road.

At the request of Detective-Sergeant Allen a remand of 48 hours was granted.

It was stated that the woman was arrested by P. C. Imam Ali Shau while she was carrying three tins alleged to contain Chinese wine.

The constable stated that when he tried to arrest the woman, he had been pelted with stones, several of which struck him, and that in self-defence he drew his revolver and fired into the crowd, a man named Lam Lin being hit in the foot. In corroboration of his statement, marks were visible on his shirt and the leather holster of his revolver.

A police investigation is being held into the circumstances.
